I remember when in the morning if I was already awake you would ask me to make you a pot of coffee and if one was already make you would hug me for the longest time. The day you passed I was sitting in the living room when you passed and I feel like if I was paying enough attention you would still be here. I really miss my morning buddy and I really wish you were still here. You taught me so many things in life like how to clean a house the right way and how to make your coffee the same exact way everyday. I miss you so so so much papa rick..... 😞😞😞
